Looking After Our Neighbourhood

To look after our neighbourhood, we need to look after the natural and built environment that is local to us. People have the right to live somewhere clean and safe, where they can be healthy. We have a responsibility to look after our neighbourhood to help make sure all people and other living things have a comfortable home.

Living in Britain

Britain is multicultural. There are many different cultures and traditions. This will mean there are many similarities and differences between people, places and experiences. These differences are what makes the world an exciting place and they should be celebrated.

British People

The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and other British Isles are multicultural nations. People come from many different backgrounds. They wear many different types of clothes, eat many different foods, speak many different languages and enjoy doing lots of different things. We all have the right to live as we choose and this must be respected. We can show respect by smiling, being friendly and learning from each other.

Feeling Proud of Our Country

There are lots of things that make our country special. These include the people, places, cultures and traditions. We can all help to keep our country special by respecting and valuing our differences and looking after the environment.

Key Learning Points:

Respecting Our Differences: There are many ways we are similar to and different from people around us. Everyone deserves to feel respected and valued and to have every opportunity to be and achieve all they can. To help show everyone kindness and respect, we can:

- smile at others;
- speak kindly;
- show care;
- ask questions;
- respect people's choices;
- learn from each other.
